HATSAN ARMS COMPANY

Established in Izmir, Turkey in 1976, Hatsan Arms Company is truly one of the few self contained, wholly independent firearms manufacturers in the industry today. Within the confines of the Hatsan operation, the machining of wood blanks into gunstocks, machining of metal parts, heat treating, coiling, finishing, plating, injection molding, welding, engraving and other production operations are conducted, to serve as components in the final assembly of Hatsan's products.

Raw materials alone - not pre-assembled or prefinished sub-parts - come in one end of the Hatsan factory, and leave the other end as completed, high quality firearms. Hatsan maintains total control of all manufacturing and assembly operations throughout its 161,000+ sq. ft. production facility. Doing everything in-house not only improves scheduling, but more importantly, assures the finest in quality control. With 300 workers, 260 machining stations including 31 CNC machines, Hatsan Arms Company possesses broad, state-of-the-art manufacturing capabilities that make it one of the major producers of shotguns in Turkey, and one of the largest producers of airguns worldwide. Design and Engineering is achieved through the most up-to-date 3D CAD system, while all synthetic and metal parts - and assemblies - are analyzed through CAE software. As testament to their quality and innovation, Hatsan Arms Company is ISO9001 certified.

ARMI SPORT/ CHIAPPA FIREARMS

Armisport Chiappa was founded in Brescia, Italy in 1958 by Ezechiele Chiappa and specialized in replica Black powder and muzzle loading firearms. Over the past 50 years the company has evolved into what is known today as "The Chiappa Group" and is chaired by Ezechiele's son Rino Chiappa. The Chiappa Group has established a reputation of providing quality firearms and services in a worldwide market through experience and a commitment to its customers to uniquely blend old world hand craftsmanship with the most modern of machining technology. This blend of craftsmanship and technology has yielded treasures of the past which are truly antique art in the form of arms. Today, the Chiappa Firearms group is a solid and fluent reality, with a commitment to shooting enthusiasts offering a wide variety of high quality products worldwide. Chiappa Firearms is proud to be involved in the evolution of the Puma 92 series of lever action rifles and Legacy Sports International's desire to make available the highest quality product that modern manufacturing techniques can allow, while maintaining a commitment to historical accuracy and traditional values.

F.A.I.R.

Since its birth, in 1971, F.A.I.R.® has been specializing in manufacturing functional and highly reliable shotguns for sport and hunting. Typical purchasers of F.A.I.R. shotguns are hunters or sport shooters who not only want their shotgun to be on the edge of aesthetic development, but also need a technically advanced and reliable product, able to produce the best in shooting results.

While following the path of the centuries-old Italian gun manufacturing tradition, F.A.I.R.'s efforts have always been aimed at providing mechanical and technical advances in shotgun production to serve a worldwide market. Our shotgun actions, designed and developed on the basis of the requirements of the international market and from an extensive R & D investment, make it possible for F.A.I.R. to offer an extensive range of exclusive shotguns, specifically built to satisfy the requirements of the various shooting disciplines in which they will be used.

In its four-thousand-square-meter factory, the company utilizes highly flexible production modules that speed production through enhanced manufacturing flexibility. While technology and experience lead to the solutions that overcome the most common technical problems of shotgun design, it is only through first class manufacturing skills that F.A.I.R. products were, and are, given widespread praise and appreciation.

FAUSTI

Fausti was founded in 1948 in Brescia, a city with a great and ancient tradition of arms manufacture. After many years of laborious and innovative design searches, together with strict selection of the best materials, Fausti is now able to combine new technologies with the time-tested and proven handcrafting methods in order to produce firearms of exceptional quality.

Their first gun crafted is the side-by-side that continues to be the most recognizable symbol of the Fausti line, though state-of-the-art over/under shotguns occupy an important place in Fausti's product selection.

Today, Fausti is respected worldwide for its high-quality guns, firearms expressly created for any type of hunting and shooting. Known for their production guns, Fausti's also offer firearms to fit the desires of the most demanding collector - modern sporting arms that will increase their value through the years.

Fausti's name is well known abroad by all collectors and lovers of arms. The company has also caught the attention of the international press, partially because it is run by three sisters called the "Gun Sisters." Elena, Giovanna and Barbara have inherited the company founded by their father, Cavaliere Ufficiale Stefano Fausti, and transformed it into one of the most dynamic entities in the field of arms manufacture.

F. LLI PIETTA

Internationally renowned for their quality and reliability, F. LLI Pietta of Brescia, Italy plays an important role in the production and supply of replica firearms and shotguns in a worldwide market. Beginning in 1962 as a producer of single barrel, side-by-side and over/under shotguns for the hunting community, F. LLI Pietta branched out into the production of muzzleloading revolvers in 1971 in response to the large demand for reproduction arms of the U.S. Civil War era. The immediate success of these initial revolvers then led to expansion to include other famous models of that period.

While incorporating the latest in technology, F. LLI Pietta maintains high quality and craftsmanship equal to the most skilled arms manufacturers operating in the Old World tradition. Each piece is produced under the most stringent quality control standards to assure compliance to tight specifications. The result of this philosophy of absolute quality are the trust and the respect of a demanding international clientele, including professional shooters.

Through their reproduction line of Single Action pistols, their new line of semi-auto shotguns and other emerging products, F. LLI Pietta is proud to be involved in the return of the Verona shotgun line. The diversity of products offered by Legacy Sports International and the promulgation of Legacy's commitment to providing the highest quality product that modern manufacturing techniques have to offer, make this partnership a sure success.

BREAK-IN PROCEDURES AND BALLISTICS CHARTS

BREAK-IN PROCEDURE FOR GUN BARRELS USING JACKETED BULLETS

For the first ten shots we recommend using jacketed bullets with a nitro powder load (Most Factory Ammo). Clean the oil out of the barrel before each shot using a simple window cleaner (like Windex®) which will soak the oil out of the pores. After firing each cartridge, use a good copper cleaner (one with ammonia) to remove the copper fouling from the barrel. We do not recommend anything with an abrasive in it since you are trying to seal the barrel, not keep it agitated.

After cleaning with bore cleaner, clean again with window cleaner after each shot. Use window cleaner because many bore cleaners use a petroleum base which you want to remove before firing the next shot. This will keep the carbon from building up in the barrel (oil left in the pores, when burned, turns to carbon).

To keep the temperature cool in the barrel, wait at least 5 minutes between break-in shots. The barrel must remain cool during the break-in procedure. If the barrel is allowed to heat up during the break-in, it will destroy the steel's ability to develop a home registration point, or memory. It will have a tendency to make the barrel "walk" when it heats up in the future. We have all seen barrels that, as they heat up, start to shoot high and then "walk" to the right. This was caused by improperly breaking in the barrel (generally by sitting at a bench rest and shooting 20 rounds in 5 minutes or so). If you take a little time in the beginning and do it right, you will be much more pleased with the barrel in the future.

Look into the end of the barrel after firing a shot, and you will see a light copper-colored wash in the barrel. Remove this before firing the next shot. Somewhere during the procedure, around shot 6 or 7, it will be obvious that the copper color is no longer appearing in the barrel. Continue the window cleaner and bore cleaner applications through shot 10.

Following the initial ten shots, you then may shoot 2 rounds, cleaning between each pair of shots, for the next 10 shots. This is simply insuring that the burnishing process has been completed. In theory, you are closing the pores of the barrel metal that have been opened and exposed through the cutting and hand lapping procedures.

BREAK-IN PROCEDURE FOR BARRELS USING LEAD BULLETS

The same shooting-cleaning process may be used when firing lead bullets and black powder with this exception: shoot 2 cartridges, then clean for the first 30 rounds. Naturally, you will use a cleaner appropriate for black powder. You can also use harder lead if available to accelerate the break in. This will accomplish the same as the jacketed bullets.

It may take 80 to 100 rounds to break in with lead. That is why we recommend using jacketed bullets when possible. After this procedure, your barrel's interior surface will be sealed and should shoot cleaner and develop less fouling for the rest of its shooting life.

Now, a Howa/Hogue Combination with the Ultimate in Horsepower!

The newly designed powerhouse caliber from Ruger and Hornady, has a cartridge case that is slightly larger in diameter than a .30-06, but shares the same overall case length. This means the new rifle caliber/rifle provides shooters with a standard length action, shorter bolt stroke and an easier feed, while producing better ballistics than the .375 H&H magnum.

Using the long-recognized Howa barreled action known for its strength, precision craftsmanship and accuracy, in combination with the Hogue Overmolded™ stock, a proven winner in non-slip gripping ability and shooting comfort, this new Howa/Hogue is being marketed under the Howa/Hogue model lineup that was originally introduced in 2006. Built with a 20", #4 contour barrel, the Howa/Hogue .375 Ruger will be available in either blued or stainless barreled actions, and with either a black or OD green Hogue stock and comes with Hi-Vis #3 front and rear sights.

Up to 70% Recoil Reduction

The Howa/Axiom uses a cam and spring absorber in the pistol grip & another heavy spring in the stock tube. Both systems are separate units from the forend, allowing the stock to absorb recoil on impact. The Howa M-1500 offers as standard many features found in much more expensive rifles, like a forged receiver and forged, one-piece bolt that are both ported for safety, a three position safety, a one-piece guard and magazine box with hinged floor plate. The bolt also features two locking lugs and an M-16 style extractor.

The Howa/Axiom features:

- Rugged lightweight synthetic construction
- Instantly adjustable length-of-pull from 11.5" to 15.5"
- Two recoil suppression devices for maximum recoil reduction of up to 70%
- Completely free-floated barrel for maximum accuracy
- CNC milled to specifically fit the Howa M-1500 action
- Available with Nikko Stirling scope package

These rifles are ideal for bench rest shooting or varmint/predator hunting. Five varmint calibers are available in the 24" Heavy Barrel and 3 calibers in the 20" Heavy Barrel version.

Howa™

Precision Rifles & Barreled Actions

Howa/Axiom rifles are available with two different scope packages, depending on the base rifle purchased. First, the standard barrel (#2 taper) Axiom comes with a 3-10x42 Nikko Stirling Nighteater riflescope, and includes rings and one-piece bases. This Axiom is available in Black synthetic stock and comes in nine standard calibers as well as three magnum calibers.

The Howa/Axiom also comes in a heavy barrel varmint version with Camo Nikko Stirling 4-16x44 Nighteater scope. This Howa/Axiom combo comes with either a 20" or 24" heavy (#6 taper) barrel for greater heat dissipation and stability, and is available in either Black or Camouflage synthetic stock. Available in five varmint killing calibers in the 24" barrel length, and .223, .22-250, and .308 calibers in the 20" barrel.

"I own two Howa rifles, an Axiom .22-250 and a Howa/Hogue .270. Out of all the firearms I own, I can say that you won't find another rifle and scope package that shoots as accurately and comfortably for the value. I was recently at a local shooting facility checking to see where my rifles were shooting since both of them had been sighted in off the back of a pickup. The results were outstanding."

Precision Rifles & Barreled Actions

NEW!

Replacing the old TH Varminter Supreme for 2010 is the Howa Thumbhole Varminter. Built by S&K Gunstocks, this tough, laminated stock is ambidextrous in design. The new open thumbhole design easily accommodates even the biggest hands and heaviest hunting gloves. The vertical pistol grip affords comfort and positive handling, while this hand position gives better control and allows for better recoil response.

The forend is massive for stability and balance when target shooting. Equipped with large vent holes, the forend dissipates barrel heat quickly for sustained, on target accuracy. These rifles come with 24", heavy barrels on proven Howa actions. Available in Nutmeg or new, Woodland stock color.

Still available for 2010 is the Howa Varminter Supreme in Nutmeg or new Woodland colors. The Varminter Supreme features a raised comb with rollover cheekpiece, a full pistol grip with palm swell, broad beavertail forend and vents for cooling.

New skeletonized thumbhole design is ambidextrous.

Back for a second year with more options than ever! This compact .22LR is available in three stock styles – traditional wood, a synthetic version that looks like the original, and an all-new Wildcat stock. The Wildcat is a synthetic stock that sports a vertical forend grip, Picatinny style accessory rail, a pistol grip and adjustable stock with 4 inch length of pull. Available with synthetic 50 round drum magazine that features a patented drive system that eliminates the need for a loading assist tool, or, for those oppressive States, a 10 round synthetic stick magazine. Extra magazines are sold separately, in either metal or synthetic versions, in 10, 30 or 50 round capacities.

New for 2010 are synthetic 50 round drum magazines to fit the popular AR-22 and 10/22 rifles.

Also available separately is the Wildcat stock. So, if you purchased last year's model, or buy the traditional stock now, you can easily upgrade to the Wildcat when it's convenient for you!

Bounty Hunter

Based on the gun that cowboy character Josh Randall carried in the 1950's TV series "Wanted: Dead or Alive," Legacy Sports International presents the Bounty Hunter Model 92. Manufactured in Italy by Chiappa Firearms, the Bounty Hunter is considered by Federal Law a handgun, not a rifle. It's 12" barrel and 24" overall length make it ideal as a pack gun or a nostalgia collectible. With a six round magazine, the Bounty Hunter also features a large, $\frac{3}{4}$ loop lever and the same beautiful wood and metal finish as the new line of full sized Model 92's. Available in .45 Colt, .44-40 or .44 Magnum.

M-1887 Shotguns

Designed by John Browning for Winchester Repeating Arms, the Model 1887 was considered the first successful repeating shotgun. This lever action shotgun is available in two barrel lengths - 22" and 28" - both with color case hardened finish. Equipped with 5 shot magazines, these shotguns are fun and effective for use in the field as a hunting gun. In addition, we are offering a Fast Load version in 22" barrel, only, that has been factory modified to accept two rounds through the breech - an ideal characteristic for Cowboy Action Shooting. All three versions of the shotgun also employ a highly effective ejection system that removes spent rounds and rechambers a new, live round in a few seconds.

Made to look and feel like a Single Action Army model, often called the "Peacemaker" this .22 caliber balances in the hand like an SAA and loads from a side gate from the half-cock position. Trigger pull is light and responsive. Hammer is of traditional single action configuration. A key operated, hammer block safety is standard on the left side of the frame, on the recoil shield. It is fitted with a 4 5/8" barrel and wood grip panels. The front sight is fixed, in the traditional SAA profile, and the rear sight is notch type, which is wide, deep and easy to use. Equipped with .22 long rifle cylinder. Construction is of alloy and steel parts with a matte black finish.

The Puma M-1911-22 is a rimfire replica of the M-1911 designed by John Browning, and carried by the U.S. military for most of the 20th Century. The Puma M-1911-22 is of similar weight and handling characteristics as the Browning design, yet the action has been redesigned as a fixed barrel blowback design which yields very high accuracy at an affordable price. This pistol is, in fact, less money to purchase than most 1911 rimfire conversion kits.

The Puma M-1911-22 is constructed of alloy and steel parts and features two piece, wooden grip panels which are interchangeable with standard 1911 grips. Sights are standard G.I. and are also interchangeable with standard 1911 sights. This standard model, configured to the original G.I. specifications, is a great choice for target shooting and general plinking. It has a 5 inch barrel with 6 grooves and a rate of twist of 1-16", and weighs 32 ounces. It is designed for .22 long rifle cartridges with a magazine capacity of 10 rounds. Each pistol is factory tested for reliability and accuracy, with groups of .75 to 1.5 inches achievable at 25.

Hunting small game with airguns or .22 caliber rifles is gaining popularity.

It is a challenging sport, as are the small, reactive “plinking” targets available today. Normally, a riflescope is focused and parallax free at 100 yards. However, when the game or target is closer, focusing and/or parallax adjustment are necessary to ensure a hit.

Mountmaster Series

The new Mountmaster Series of riflescopes has been developed to provide fast focus and parallax correction through adjustable objective (AO) lenses. With the Mountmaster Series, you can adjust right down to 10 yards!

These well-made, yet competitively priced scopes can stand up to real use. Mountmaster scopes come with full metal adjustment housings for greater reliability. Each “click” equals $\frac{1}{4}$ inch of adjustment. Mountmaster scopes come standard with a Mil Dot reticle. All Mountmaster scopes come with $\frac{3}{8}$ inch, quick detachable mounts.

NIKKO STIRLING MOUNTMASTER & MOUNTMASTER AO SERIES

Mountmaster AO Series

The Mountmaster AO Series features a strong, 3/8 inch dovetail mount ring. In addition, we have added a recoil stop screw that allows the scope to be mounted to powerful airguns without the fear of shifting under their sharp, double recoil.

The Mountmaster AO Series also features finger adjustable windage and elevation bezels. The scope is fitted with a Mil Dot reticle and comes in a matte black finish. All Mountmaster scopes are waterproof and nitrogen filled.
