Hornady reaches another pivotal turning point with the application of LEVERevolution® Flex Tip™ technology to the handgun arena with the 357 Magnum and 44 Magnum LEVERevolution® cartridges.

Typical hollow point pistol bullets deliver good performance at modest velocities, but expand too quickly and sacrifice penetration at the higher velocities achieved with lever action rifles. But Hornady soon discovered that the same Flex Tip™ technology that prevents primers from detonating in tubular magazines, also allows the bullet to expand reliably over an unbelievably wide range of velocities.

Upon impact, the Flex Tip™ eXpanding bullet is compressed into the front of the bullet, causing the bullet to expand under hydraulic force. Flex Tip™ eXpanding bullets will NEVER clog and not expand like some hollow points can. This also transfers a great deal of immediate energy with a devastating temporary cavity, even at low velocity.

Now you can shoot Hornady's advanced LEVERevolution® from your lever gun AND your handgun!

The 357 and 44 Magnum LEVERevolution® cartridges feature 140 and 225 gr FTX bullets, launching at 1850 to 1,900 feet per second. By applying our patented Flex Tip™ technology and clean-burning, high-energy propellants, these cartridges offer "rifle-like" performance in both expansion and depth of penetration over a very broad range of velocities in both pistols and lever action rifles.

Now hunters who use both handguns and lever guns no longer have to use two different cartridges to get the results they're shooting for.
